List of Public International Organizations

The following is the list of public international organizations (PIOs) and international agricultural research centers (IARCs) that are considered public international organizations for the purposes of ADS 308 on agreements with public international organizations. The list below does not determine whether an entity is an international organization for the purpose of other statutes or regulations. It will be updated periodically as organizations are added, deleted, or re-categorized. Any comments (including proposed revisions) to this list should be provided by email to the Bureau of Policy, Planning and Learning, Office of Development Cooperation (PPL/DC) at pioperformance@usaid.gov.

PIOs currently subject to funding restrictions per ADS 308.3.1.2 are marked with an obelisk (†), with restrictions detailed in the last section of the document.

United Nations System Considerations

Note that entities and bodies included in the UN System are considered Public International Organizations for the purposes of ADS 308. Any entity or body of the UN System that is not listed below should be considered as a Category 2 PIO.

The UN Secretariat is composed of varied departments and offices, and therefore each Secretariat unit USAID has funded is listed and categorized below separately based on the volume and frequency of USAID funding. Any department or office of the UN Secretariat that is not listed below should be considered as a Category 2 PIO.

Members of the UN Sustainable Development Group (UNSDG) subject to the Coordination Levy at ADS 308.3.7.2 are marked with an asterisk (*).

Category 1

Category 1 PIOs are major international PIOs and International Agricultural Research Centers and certain regional PIOs which USAID works with closely and frequently. The decision to include a PIO in Category 1 is determined at PPL/DC's discretion. For more information, see ADS 308.3.1.2.
